

LANDING OF THE FIRST SETTLERS

Celebration at Jamestown in Commemoration of Advent of First Permanent Colony.

FOREIGN SAILORS ASHORE

PARADE A REALLY MAGNIFICENT SPECTACLE.

Norfolk, Va., May 13.—The celebration today on Jamestown Island, forty miles up the James river, of the 24th anniversary of the landing there of the first permanent English settlers under Sir Christopher Newport, John Smith and others, was held under fair skies and conditions in every way auspicious. The exercises upon the island were directed under the auspices of the Society for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities. Joseph Bryan of Richmond, Va., presided and the invocation was offered by Bishop Randolph of the diocese of Southern Virginia.

The opening address was delivered by Governor Swanson of Virginia, and Ambassador Bryce followed with an address, the subject being "The Greetings of the Old World to the New."

Governor Ellis of Virginia introduced Governor Swanson and Mr. Bryan introduced Ambassador Bryce.

A choir composed of students from William and Mary college was in attendance, and Bishop Gibson of the diocese of Virginia, and other clergy, participated.

Lady Grey, wife of Earl Grey of Canada, is with Ambassador Bryce.

Magnificent Parade.

The parade of army troops, marines and sailors, with 1000 men in line, was a beautiful spectacle. The foreign bands played "The Star-Spangled Banner" as they passed the reviewing stand, and the outbursts of applause incident to this were deafening. Rear Admiral Thomas, commanding the second division of the first squadron of the Atlantic fleet, was chief marshal of the parade. Rear Admiral Evans was unable to come ashore.

In addition to the marines and sailors from the American warships, detachments participated from the Japanese, Italian, Austrian, Brazilian and Chilean warships.

The twenty-third infantry, with twelve companies, repeated its splendid marching of the opening day of the exposition.

The small army from the Atlantic fleet was commanded by Captain Schroeder of the battleship Virginia and consisted of forty-eight companies of blue-jackets and marines, divided into eight battalions.

The third battery of the United States field artillery, commanded by Captain Horn, made a splendid showing.

Kuroki Honored.

The elaborate celebration at the Jamestown exposition today was ushered in by the firing of a salute of seventeen guns from Fort Monroe, incident to the arrival at Old Point Comfort at 6:15 a. m. in honor of General Baron Kuroki, his staff and party, accompanied by General O. E. Wood as official escort.

General Kuroki and party were met at the Old Point Comfort pier by General Grant and Major Strong, the latter commanding Fort Monroe.

All honors were accorded the distinguished Japanese, and after breakfast General Kuroki and party proceeded by special boat to review the great fleet of American and foreign warships in Hampton Roads, after which they landed at the Jamestown exposition grounds for the exercises of the day.

The Japanese flag was the first of the international races, the cutter class.

Loan Clerk of Trust Company Acted Upon Advice When He Took the Bonds.

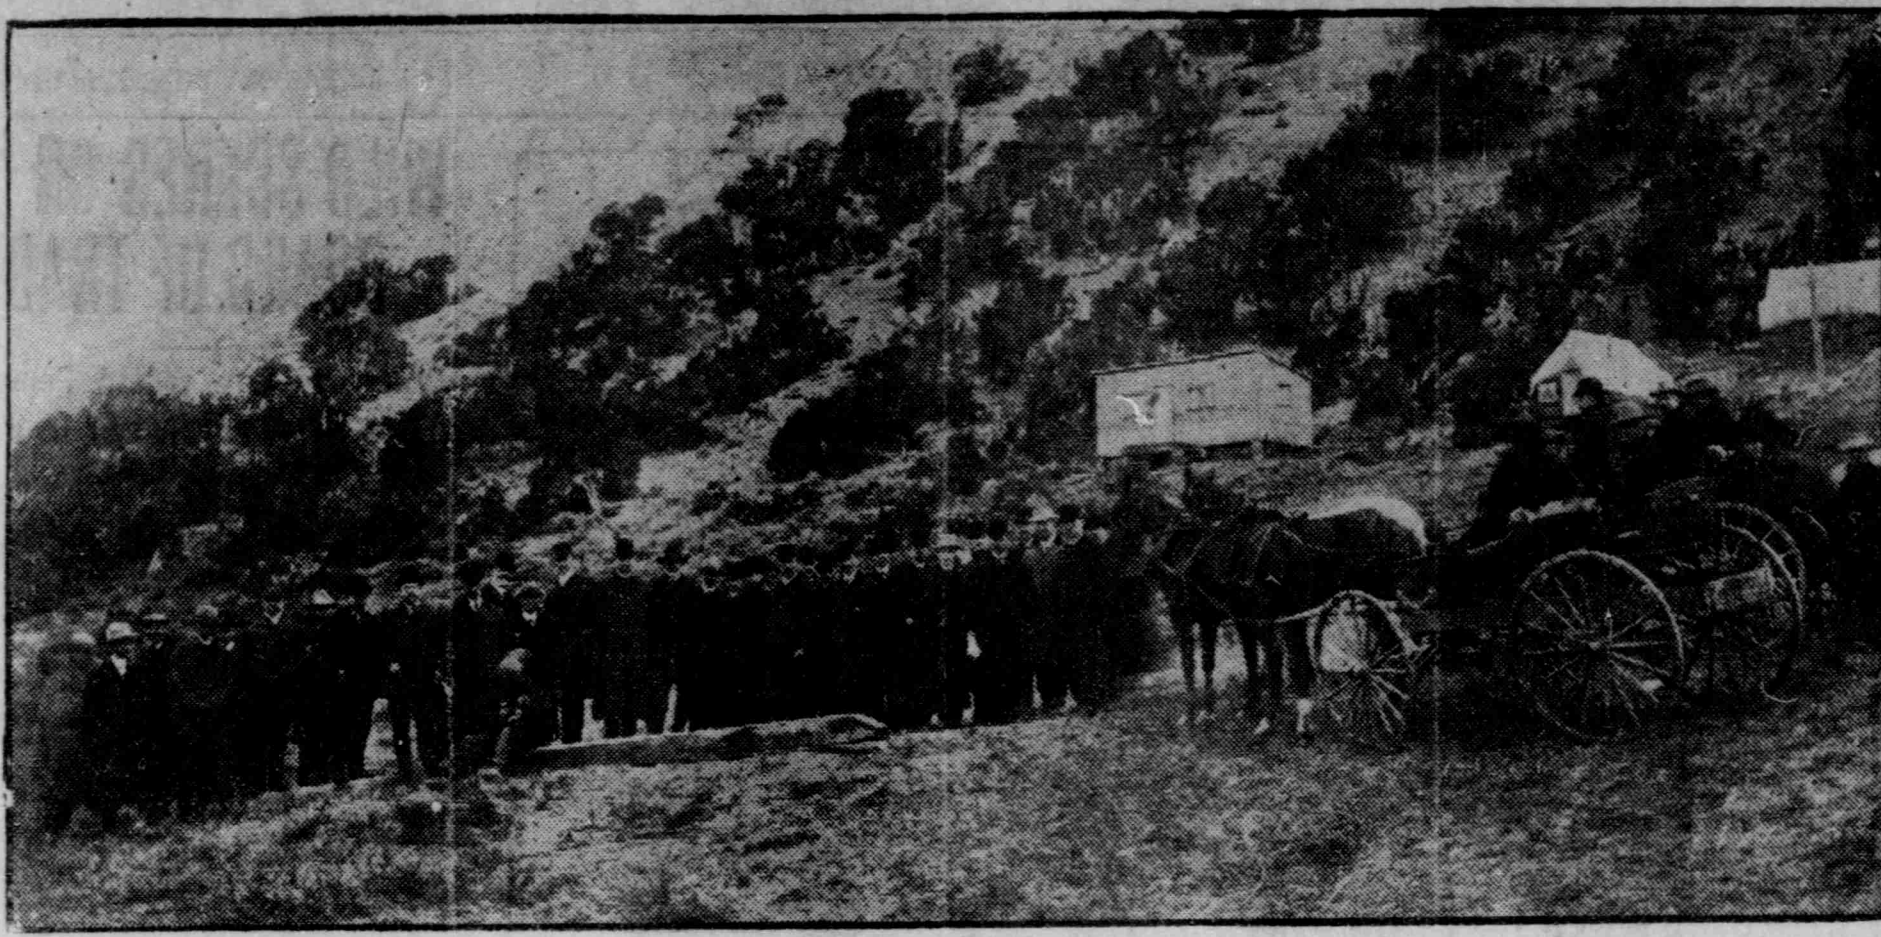

New York, May 13.—Details of a confession made by William O. Douglass, former loan clerk of the Trust Company of America, made public today, are to the effect that, acting on the advice of a lawyer, he planned to steal $1,000,000 of securities in order to compel the trust company to overlook his minor crimes. Douglass has already pleaded guilty to larceny and is awaiting sentence. According to his confession, he first took small quantities of bonds and, borrowing money on them, lost it in speculating. When it was evident that he could not retrieve his losses, a lawyer was consulted, who advised him that the only way out of the difficulty was to steal $1,000,000 worth of securities and turn them over to the lawyer, who might negotiate with the officials of the trust company for their return. Douglass' understanding was that the lawyer expected to get $300,000 from the trust company for the restoration of the securities, which would have been sufficient to cover the amounts Douglass had already borrowed and lost.

KNIGHTS ASSEMBLE TODAY

Council of Knights of Columbus to Hold Convention for Three States.

The State council of the Knights of Columbus for Utah, Idaho and Nevada will convene here at 10 o'clock this morning in annual convention. The councils which are expected to send two delegates to the convention are: Salt Lake, Ogden, Park City and Eureka, Utah; Pocatello, Boise and Lewiston, Idaho; Reno, Tonopah and Goldfield, Nev.

The proceedings will be opened at the Knights' hall this morning with a reception to the visitors, and at noon a luncheon will be served at the Weber club.

In the afternoon a drive through Ogden canyon will be included in the program. The first business session of importance will be held at 2:30 this afternoon. After the business session this evening, the delegates will be guests of the local lodge at a banquet which will be spread in the banquet hall adjoining the hall in which the convention will be held.

The election of officers and the matter of individual state councils will be the most important questions to come before the meeting. The present officers of the council are: State deputy, W. L. Maginnis, Ogden; state treasurer, J. B. Crossgriff, Salt Lake; state advocate, J. B. Hawley, Boise; state treasurer, S. A. Maginnis, Ogden; state warden, R. J. Hogan, Pocatello; state chaplain, Rev. James Morgan, Sparks, Nev.; past state deputy, George Jay Gibson, Salt Lake.

BICYCLIST FINED $2.

Dan Burch Must Pay for Violation of Ordinance.

Dan Burch, who was arrested some days ago for violating the bicycle ordinance, was before Judge J. D. Murphy in police court yesterday morning. The complaining officer was M. Malone. Burch tried to evade the law upon the ground that but one side of the street where the arrest was effected was macadamized, but this failed to hold. According to the officer's story Burch tried to have him call the case off. Burch was found guilty and fined $2.

Final Rehearsal of Cantata.

Last evening the final rehearsal of the cantata, "First Christmas," which will be presented by the Tabernacle choir at the Tabernacle this evening, was held. This is the greatest affair ever planned by Professor Ballantyne for the choir. The music of the production is said to be of a high class and the indications are that there will be a large attendance.

Mrs. Marguerite Etherington Dies.

Mrs. Marguerite Etherington, widow of the late Thomas Etherington, died at the home of her daughter in West Weber from an attack of neuritis of the heart on Monday night. She was 72 years of age and is survived by one son and two daughters. The funeral will be held Wednesday at 11 o'clock at the West Weber meeting house. Burial will be made in the City cemetery.

COUNTY BOARD IN SESSION.

Transact Routine Business During an All-Day Meeting.

The board of county commissioners held another all day session yesterday. The board accepted the suggestion of County Surveyor H. J. Craven that 6,400 feet of the grade of the riverbed hill were approved. The cost of this work is given as $500 and the improvement will be made at once. The Ogden & Northwestern Railway company petitioned for the privilege of placing posts along the county road in connection with the electrifying of their line to Utah Hot Springs, which will be done at once. The board was inclined to grant the petition, but took the matter under advisement until after they visit the scene.

The plans and specifications of the surveyor relative to the cutting down of the grade of the riverbed hill were approved. The cost of this work is given as $500 and the improvement will be made at once. The Ogden & Northwestern Railway company petitioned for the privilege of placing posts along the county road in connection with the electrifying of their line to Utah Hot Springs, which will be done at once. The board was inclined to grant the petition, but took the matter under advisement until after they visit the scene.

The bond of John M. Grow, fish and game warden for Weber county, amounting to $1,000, with Fred Anderson and Ed Sprague as sureties, was approved. In connection with the office of overseer of poor and the contingent fund now asked for by the man now holding the position, the board decided that a bond of $2,000 go with the office to guarantee the faithful performance of his duties.

In conformity with the new law which provides that the board has the right to sell property under tax deed at the first regular meeting of the board each month, the commissioners decided to do this hereafter.

The resignations of E. C. Richardson, constable of Plain City, and William Bailey, constable of Liberty, were accepted.

GLASSMANN TRIAL ON.

Case of Mrs. Richards for Libel Now Being Heard.

The libel case of Alice Lewis Richards against William Glasmann and the Standard Publishing company was taken up in the district court yesterday. The greater part of the day was taken up with the reading of testimony. On each of several points of law having come up during the interrogation of jurors by the counsel for the plaintiffs, the jury as it heard the evidence, was asked to retire for cause by the plaintiffs' attorneys. It is expected that the examination of the jurors by the defense will be brief and the taking of testimony should commence early today. Judge W. W. Maughan of Logan is here to try this and some other similar cases. The matter of a motion for a new trial in the case of Viola Lewis vs. the Standard Publishing company was not concluded, the court ordering the Richards case to proceed.

Long-Winded Session.

The city council held a three and a half hours' session last evening. With the exception of about thirty minutes the whole of the session was taken up with what appeared to be useless discussion of trivial matters. Four hundred and seventy dollars was voted for the purchase of a new patrol wagon and $175 to take care of the waters of the Weber canal.

Sneak Thief Gets $350.

A sneak thief entered the room of Jacob Berti at the Denver rooming house some time Sunday night and stole $350 in cash which Berti had in one of his pockets. Berti was sound asleep while the robber searched the room and did not discover his loss until yesterday morning. It is supposed entrance was gained with the aid of a skeleton key.

Ate But Would Not Pay.

James McDonald and four companions entered a Twenty-fifth street restaurant last evening and after ordering and eating meals, refused to pay. Three of the men escaped, but McDonald was arrested and locked up in the police station.

Dr. William Driver Attacked.

While riding a bicycle along Twenty-sixth street Dr. William Driver was attacked by Guy and William Morgan. In an effort to escape the doctor was thrown from his bicycle and was injured. The charge of disturbing the peace was placed against them.

Ogden Briefs.

BACK FROM SAN FRANCISCO.—John Pingree, cashier of the First National bank, returned yesterday from San Francisco.

MARRIAGE LICENSE.—A marriage license was issued yesterday by W. T. Stillwell and Miss Alice M. Sandford, both of Ogden.

A SMALL BLAZE.—An overheated stove caused a small blaze at the home of Hans P. Peterson, at Twenty-fourth street and Grant avenue, about 9:30 o'clock yesterday morning. There was virtually no loss.

JOHN QUINN HEARD FROM.—John Quinn, who was supposed to have met with foul play while on his way to Los Angeles, has wired his wife here that he is all right and will be home the middle of the week.

NOT OWNER OF EXAMINER.—In the city court yesterday Judge J. D. Murphy handed down his second decision in the criminal libel cases against William Glasmann. The decision was a long affair and held that the prosecution had failed to prove that Glasmann was the owner of the Examiner, and the case was dismissed.

GETS NINETY DAYS.—In the city court yesterday the case of burglary against John Brotherton was dismissed and a case of petit larceny substituted. Brotherton pleaded guilty to the latter charge and received a ninety-day sentence. Brotherton was one of the youthful gang of burglars arrested here some time ago.

WYOMING COMPANY INCORPORATED.—The Golden Rule Mercantile company of Evanston, Wyo., filed articles of incorporation here yesterday. The concern has a capital stock of $30,000 and is organized to do a general mercantile business in Wyoming and other states. The board of directors and incorporators are Guy Johnson, Lucy Johnson and Roland W. Stevens.

AMUSEMENTS

If the last week of the Orpheum is as good as the present, the season will close in what may aptly be termed a blaze of glory. There's not a dry or wearisome moment from the time the curtain goes up on De Coe, the man with the tables, and the last Frenchy act of the European balancers, in the bill presented.

It would be rather difficult to pick a headline, though it's dead easy to say that the one selected by the Orpheum management isn't it. Jamon Brockman and company in "The Count of No Account" present some clever vaudeville stunts, and shine in numerous ways, and the leader himself has a fine voice to offset all the lacking qualities, but the title of the alleged act is in no instance necessary to its production. It might as well be called one thing as another, but it is certainly not act in any sense. The dancing of the two Misses Phillips and Tom Yost is well up to the mark, and the voice of Mr. Brockman is his main asset.

The fun making practically begins with the entrance of Ferguson and Mack, and it never ends while they are in sight. Their several stunts are of the most ingeniously funny and so droll that the audience is forced to laugh whether or not. But the final act in ballet costumes is of a nature calculated to move the spunk itself.

The clever work of the Bellong brothers in their acrobatic and cycle acts has seldom been equaled by any of the balancing artists of the playhouse, and the entertaining and risqué act of the European balancers, Lee Kinsley Moulton, is about as funny as anything seen during the entire season. De Coe opens the bill with his handkerchief escapes from the tops of innumerable tables and chairs, and he wins the plaudits of the audience with his feats.

Another one of those charming singers who seem to toll not nor spin (except a few jokes) hold the throng and makes good for the lack of the aid of a very pleasing personality, a set of teeth, the like of which no act could conceive, a winning smile and a few trinkets in the way of clothes, she sets the audience, not excepting the orchestra, into a perfect flutter till they are forced to cry with her, "Stop! Stop! Stop!" Her name is Dorothy Drew, and she is worth seeing and hearing.

The kinodrome presents a new feature, in the way of the "Lucky" show. The whole bill is a fine one.

Lew Dockstader and his famous minstrel band with everything brand new will be seen at the Salt Lake theater Wednesday.

"An Irish Uncle's Visit" is the title of an interesting piece of fun being indulged in at the Lyric this week. The sketch is being presented by Dacey, Chase and Adair. There is not the semblance of a laugh in the whole thing, but it is a wholesome fun. Next week "The Written Law," showing scenes from the Thaw-White tragedy, will be shown.

This, the last week of Mr. Leighton's engagement at the Grand theater, promises to prove the most profitable of the star's entire appearance at the house. "We're of Tennessee" is the attraction, and last night's audience was a record-breaker.

SONS OF PATRIOTS FEAST

Descendants of the Soldiers of the Revolution Hold Annual Banquet at the Commercial Club.

The Utah Society of the Sons of the American Revolution held its annual banquet last evening at the Commercial club. In addition to being their annual festival the occasion was also commemorative of the three hundredth anniversary of the first landing of the colonists in Jamestown.

Former Governor Heber M. Wells was toastmaster. Among the toasts were: "The Sons of the Revolution," by Fisher Harris; "The Birth of a Nation: The Adoption of the Constitution," by Morris L. Ritchie; "A Product of the Revolution," Frank D. Hobbs, by Frank B. Stephens.

ANNUAL MAY SALE OPENS

Crowds of Eager Purchasers Await Opening of Doors This Morning.

For some time the ladies of Salt Lake have been looking forward to the Annual May Sale at the big Co-operative store. Since its inception the movement of having a general clearance sale annually has been an unqualified success, and present appearances indicate that this year's sale will surpass any May Sale in the history of the institution.

Each year has added to the interest created by the preceding sale, as purchasers realize that Z. C. M. I. is always reliable; they do not allow "marking up" for sale purposes, and their goods are always of the best quality. Hence it is not surprising that a throng of eager purchasers awaited the opening of the doors yesterday morning despite the unpleasant weather conditions.

Over 125 extra salespeople had been employed, but even with this provision strenuous efforts had to be put forward to prevent congestion. Tomorrow, however, it is anticipated the crowds will be handled with dispatch.

Last evening the clerks remained at the store straightening the goods and replenishing the broken lines from the reserve stock, so this morning bargains equally as good as could be obtained yesterday will be offered.

Thrifty housewives will surely take advantage of this exceptional bargain opportunity week at Z. C. M. I.

STATE BONDS PURCHASED.

Land Commissioners Take Up $10,000 Worth of Obligations.

The state board of land commissioners yesterday purchased from the state ten bonds of the denomination of $1,000 each. The money used was a portion of the funds set aside for the redemption of the territorial bond issue of 1892. The bonds bear 4 per cent interest and mature in 1916. The price paid was 102½.

ONE TALESMAN ADDED TO JURY

The minutes and court record are a part of each day's routine under the procedure of the state. Haywood took a seat at the end of the line of chairs occupied by his family.

There was but one absentee when the roll of veniremen was called. Judge Wood directed that an attachment be issued against the missing juror. A moment later the judge read the law fixing the power of the court to excuse jurors.

If any proposed juror has a legal excuse to offer he will now step forward," said Judge Wood.

Immediately there was an uproar in the courtroom. It seemed that four or five of the special panel rose as one man and began to press forward to catch the ear of the court.

Judge Wood declined to excuse three men who said they were members of the federal grand jury and were still subject to the call of the United States court.

Senator Board, one of the leading counsel for the state in the Haywood case, is alleged to have been indicted for alleged participation in time land frauds by the grand jury of which these men are members. Much time was consumed by the veniremen in stating their excuses and pleading for release from jury service.

Twenty-Four Let Go.

Judge Wood excused twenty-four of those who were heard. The offering of excuses occupied one hour and twenty minutes. Three of the excused veniremen presented doctors' certificates; four were excused on personal pleas of illness, three because they were overseas of the country roads, five because of the illness of their wives, one because of age, he being 70 years old, two for pressing business reasons, two irrigation ditch riders, one chairman of the city board of public works, one probation officer, one witness, and one substitute rural free delivery mail carrier. Judge Wood declined to excuse six veniremen who pleaded for release and temporarily passed five others.

It was 3:25 p. m. when the eleven men who had been locked up since Thursday were brought into the courtroom. Ellsworth Lister, a farmer, was called into the vacant seat No. 4 and examined first by the attorneys for the state as to his qualifications.

Lister said he had both formed and expressed an unqualified opinion and was challenged for cause by the state. He was excused.

For the first time during the trial the sheriff had to close the courtroom doors this afternoon, the seating capacity being tested to its uttermost and no one being allowed to stand.

Young Farmer Questioned.

Walter Shaw, a young farmer, who came to Idaho two years ago from the state of Washington, was called to seat No. 4 and successfully passed the examination of the state's attorneys. Shaw declared he had not formed an opinion, had no prejudice or bias against or for the prisoner, had no prejudice against circumstantial evidence.

Shaw was closely questioned by Mr. Richardson of the defense. He said his brother was a member of the last legislature.

"How did he vote on the bill appropriating money for the prosecution of this case?" asked Mr. Richardson.

"I don't know."

"Ever talk to your brother about the case?"

"Yes, to a certain extent."

Besides one local newspaper, the proposed juror said he read only the Ladies' Home Journal.

Carried through a long line of interrogations as to whether or not he had an opinion, Shaw finally admitted that he had a "wish" in the matter, but he denied that the wish had anything to do with the guilt or innocence of the accused. Asked if he would cast his vote in accordance with his wish, Shaw said he did not know.

His brother voted for Senator Borah. Shaw said he belonged to the Meat Cutters' union in Seattle, Wash., for a year, but withdrew when he left that city and went to farming. His experience with the union had not left any prejudice in his mind against unionism.

"What are your politics?" asked Mr. Richardson.

"Republican."

"Have you any prejudice for or against Democrats as such?"

"No."

"Or Socialists?"

"No."

"You wouldn't believe in hanging a man simply because he is a Socialist, would you?"

"No," the proposed juror laughingly replied.

Roosevelt's Letter.

The interest of Secretary Taft or President Roosevelt in the case, Shaw said, would not influence his judgment in any way. Asked if he had read the president's "undesirable citizens" letter, Shaw replied:

"I did read a piece in the paper about it, I believe."

Shaw was passed without challenge for cause, but is still subject to a peremptory challenge from either side. Before the examination of the talesman in seat No. 5 could be proceeded with, Judge Wood ordered an adjournment until 10 a. m. tomorrow. The twelve men in the box were locked up.

Western Union Witness.

Spokane, Wash., May 13.—A. D. Campbell, local manager of the Western Union telegraph company, is to be a witness in the trial of the officers of the Western Federation of Miners at Boise.

It appears that a detective in the employment of the government became aware of the fact that officers of the Western Federation had sent a message to Spokane to one of its representatives in regard to the Steenberg murder. This representative is supposed to have been Orchard, but Mr. Campbell is wanted in Boise to determine that matter.

A pretty fight is likely to be a result of the summons as it is the custom of the Western Union to refuse to give testimony whenever such a course is possible.
